

Witnesses to Hunger Exhibit Opening Reception

Tuesday, October 16, 2012 at 4pm

SMC Campus Center, University of Maryland Baltimore

621 West Lombard Street, Baltimore, MD 21201

Witnesses to Hunger is an advocacy project in which parents depict their experiences of raising children on a limited income. Using digital photography, the Witnesses spark dialogue, engage and inform policymakers, and inspire change.

This exhibit features photographs by six Baltimore-based Witnesses as well as photographs by other Witnesses from around the East Coast. Exhibit is free and open to the public.

To RSVP for the reception, please send an email to lflamm@mdhungersolutions.org. To arrange a tour on another date, please contact info@witnessestohunger.org

DREXEL UNIVERSITY
School of Public Health

CENTER FOR HUNGER-FREE COMMUNITIES

solutions based on science and the human experience

Maryland Hunger Solutions

Ending hunger and promoting well-being

Witnesses to Hunger is a project of the Center for Hunger-Free Communities at Drexel University School of Public Health. This exhibition is brought to you through a partnership with the Division of Growth and Nutrition, University of Maryland School of Medicine, Maryland Hunger Solutions, and Children's HealthWatch. The reception is in conjunction with the second annual Fighting Hunger in Maryland Conference on October 16, with generous support from Kaiser Permanente.